PHILOSOPHY: The reservation of seats for the press in the spectator section of the Courtroom is for the purpose of extending the public aspect of the trial to as large and diverse a public as possible. Therefore, selection of seats within the boundaries set by the court must be made following a philosophy of reaching the largest public, or group of publics, with a minimum of duplication.